A BILL FOR AN ACT

To enact a Freedom of Information Act for the Federated States of Micronesia, to define public information, to establish basic principles that govern the disclosure of public information including the principles of transparency, openness and accountability in public service, to create a legal obligation to disclose public information upon request, to establish suitable procedures for the disclosure of public information, to provide remedies for violation of this act, to utilize the reserved title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia (Annotated) by creating a new chapter 1 thereof entitled “Freedom of Information” that sets out the Freedom of Information Act of 2020, and for other purposes.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE CONGRESS OF THE FEDERATED STATES OF MICRONESIA:

Section 1. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new chapter 1 thereof entitled: “Freedom of information”.

Section 2. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 101 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 101. Legislative intent.

It is the intent of Congress to enact the Freedom of Information Act in order to enhance transparency in public service, establish a culture of openness and accountability in government, and encourage disclosure of public information towards contributing to a healthy and meaningful public discourse.”

Section 3. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 102 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 102. The following principles and approaches shall guide the implementation of this act:

(a) Maximum disclosure. Information held by public bodies is presumed to be subject to disclosure except for information involving national security and such information that is in the national interest of the Federated States of Micronesia to withhold for the time being.

(b) Right to access own personal information;

(c) Obligation to publish information;

(d) Promotion of open government;

(e) Limited scope of exemptions;

(f) Process to facilitate access;

(g) Excessive and unreasonable fees should not impede access to public information; and

(h) Public servants and employees, and civilians who are required by law to disclose information shall be accorded adequate protection and immunity by law in order to reinforce freedom of information in a manner that does not undermine the intent of this act.

(i) To promote accuracy of information being disclosed and to attain efficacy of the intent of this act, handling of information shall be centralized to the extent possible for consistency purposes and to minimize... any misinformation. The Division of Public Information of the Office of the President plays a key role in this regard.”

Section 4. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 103 under
chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 103. Scope and objective.

(a) The objective of this act is to accord citizens and persons under the act the right to access public information on matters of public importance including information concerning public governance, delivery of public services, and public accountability of public officials entrusted with government offices and duties.

(b) It is also the aim of this act to grant to citizens and persons under the act the right to consultation and information and to be aware of government decisions that affect them or that are concerning public interest in general, so long as such decisions do not involve information directly relating to national security, sensitive information concerning diplomatic relations of the Federated States of Micronesia with other nations, criminal investigation and law enforcement matters, private information and other information that are protected by regulation.

(c) Access to public information is guaranteed in accordance with the principles of transparency, openness and accountability in public service. Each application to access public information shall be diligently evaluated with a view towards ensuring that no person is deprived of the right to public information, and that any exception from access to public information is construed reasonably within the limits set out in this act.”

Section 5. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 104 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 104. No person shall be discriminated against with respect to access to public information on account of sex, race, ancestry, national origin or social status. The national government shall ensure that any risks of discrimination are adequately addressed and effectively minimized through the issuance of regulation that gives effect to the objectives of this act.”

Section 6. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 105 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 105. Unless the context otherwise requires, the terms used in this act shall have the following meanings:

(a) “Applicant” means a person who makes an application or a request to access public information defined in this act.

(b) "Division of Public Information" means the Division of Public Information under the Office of the President.

c) "Information Officer" is the information officer so appointed under section 7(a) of this act.

d) "National agency" means any branch, department, office, agency or instrumentality of the national government of the Federated States of Micronesia performing public functions, including public corporations or legal entities, boards and commissions created by act of the Congress of the Federated States of Micronesia.

(e) "Person" means a natural or juridical person. Unless restricted by its context, the term person refers to a citizen of the Federated States of Micronesia or a resident of any of the states of the Federated States of Micronesia.

(f) "Personal information" means information about an identifiable individual, whether living or deceased, and includes, but is not limited to:

(1) information relating to the race, gender, sex, marital status, national, ethnic or social origin, color, sexual orientation, age, physical or mental health, well-being, disability, religion, conscience, belief, culture, language and birth of an individual;

(2) information relating to the education or the medical, criminal or employment history of an individual or information relating to financial transactions in which the individual has been involved;

(3) any identifying number, symbol or other particular assigned to an individual;

(4) the address, fingerprints or blood type of an individual;

(5) the personal opinions, views or preferences of an individual;

(6) correspondence sent by an individual that is implicitly or explicitly of a private or confidential nature or further correspondence that would reveal the contents of the original correspondence;

(7) the views or opinions of another individual about the individual; and

(8) the name of an individual where it appears with other personal information relating to the individual or where the disclosure of the name itself would reveal information about the individual.

(g) The term personal information does not include—

(1) information about an individual who has been dead for more than 10 years;
(2) in a case where the individual holds or held office as a director, or occupies or occupied a position as a member of the staff, of a national agency, the name of the individual or information relating to the office or position or its functions or the terms upon and subject to which the individual holds or held that office or occupies or occupied that position or anything written or recorded in any form by the individual in the course of and for the purpose of the performance of the functions aforesaid;

(3) in a case where an individual is or was providing a service for a national agency under a contract for services with the agency, the name of the individual or information relating to the service or the terms of the contract or anything written or recorded in any form by the individual in the course of and for the purposes of the provision of the service; or

(4) the professional views or opinions of the individual expressed in relation to official duties concerning the national government or its agencies, departments, and offices, or the performance of the functions of the national government;

(h) “President” means the president of the Federated States of Micronesia;

(i) “Public Information” means information regarding the operation of the national government, the delivery of public services, creation and enforcement of law and regulation, formulation of national policies, conduct and accountability of public officials and employees, where such information is collected, developed or held by a national agency as part of the official business of the national government and in the performance of its legal mandate as a national agency. Executive privilege and other privileges recognized by FSM case law do not fall under the definition of public information.”

Section 7. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 106 under
chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 106. Right of access to information.

(a) Every person shall have the right to access public information from a national agency.

(b) The procedures to facilitate access of public information and any restriction on the access on the basis of national security, confidentiality not inconsistent with law, or other reasons deemed legally acceptable or necessary, shall be set out in a regulation.

(c) An application requesting access to public information is not required that it must be supported by any reason for as long as the application is not patently malicious, or not clearly tainted with bad faith, or not with malicious motive.

(d) Forms shall be developed and required with respect to application to access public information.

(e) Fees may be imposed and the fee schedule shall be specified in a regulation to recover the cost of review of application, reproduction or making copies of document or information.

(f) An applicant is entitled to be informed whether or not a national agency holds the information requested. If the national agency concerned has the information requested, then the application shall be acted upon expeditiously. Right to access public information under this act does not give any person the authority to remove any document or information from the national agency holding it.”

Section 8. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 107 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 107. Appointment of Information Officers.

(a) Every national agency shall, within six (6) months from the effective date of this act, or within six (6) months after being created by law whichever is later, designate one or two new positions for employees to be appointed as Information Officers to facilitate the expeditious handling of application to access public information and to assist in the review of application requesting access to public information. The Information Officers appointed shall cooperate with the Division of Public Information, the latter being responsible for managing, coordinating and facilitating the processes that need to take place whenever an application to access public information is made and also the release of any public information subject of an application. The highest management official of each national agency shall make the appointment. For public corporation, the chief executive officer, or its equivalent position, shall make the appointment. Where the appointed officers are unable to discharge their functions, then a substitute shall be designated in a timely manner.

(b) Information Officers shall, in addition to any obligations specifically provided for under this Act, be responsible for promoting an open, transparent and responsible government, responsible and systematic management of public records, and respect of the right to information through timely processing and handling of application requesting access to public information.”

Section 9. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 108 under
chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 108. Allocation of resources. Every national agency shall ensure the allocation of resources for the provision of appropriate training for its officials on the right to information and the effective implementation of this act. There will be additional staffing and corresponding provisions to support the activities required under this Act including the designation of new positions regularly budgeted for every national agency."

Section 10. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 109 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 109. Publication of Information. A national agency shall, within six (6) months of the effective date of this act or its coming into operation as declared by the President, whichever is later, cause to be published and widely disseminated in an accessible form, an initial statement of its organization and functions, including description of its structure, functions and duties, list of the entities falling under it including their location, opening hours, and subject matters handled, directory of its officers and employees, simple guide to its information-keeping systems, and relevant details concerning any services it provides to the public."

Section 11. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 110 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 110. Processing and granting a request to access public information.

(a) In order to access public information under this act, a person shall make a request in writing or through electronic means to a national agency specifying the particulars of the information desired and in sufficient detail as to enable the national agency to identify, with reasonable effort, whether or not the national agency holds that information.

(b) The application shall state, at a minimum—

(1) whether the information requested is in connection with any litigation between the applicant and the national government;

(2) postal address, email address, telephone number or other contact details of the applicant; and

(3) if the application is made on behalf of a person, to submit proof of the capacity in which the applicant is making the application, to the reasonable satisfaction of the national agency concerned.

(c) An application that is complete shall be granted expeditiously within a period of 30 calendar days from its receipt.

(d) An official who receives an application to access public information may forward that application to the relevant Information Officer of another national agency concerned in accordance with section 111 for purposes of complying with this section.

(e) A person who is unable to make a written application because of illiteracy, disability, or a lack of access to postal services may make an oral request in person, or by telephone or other electronic device, and the official of the national agency who receives the oral or electronic request shall, subject to the provisions of regulation, reduce it to writing, include his or her name and position within the national agency and provide a copy thereof to the applicant.

(f) Before making a decision whether or not to grant application to access public information, the national agency concerned shall take into consideration any representation or objection made by a third party under section 122 or section 123 of this act."

Section 12. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 111 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 111. Transfer of request.

(a) Where the information requested by an applicant is held by another national agency, not the agency to which an application is originally lodged, such application may be transferred to the national agency holding the information, if the person transferring the request knows this fact. Notification of the transfer shall be provided to the applicant as expeditiously as possible. Notification to the applicant shall specify:

(1) the date on which the transfer was done;

(2) the national agency to which the application was transferred; and

(3) the contact person or contact information of the national agency to which the application was transferred.

(b) An application may be transferred to the Division of Public Information.

(c) Where an application to access public information is transferred under subsection (a) of this section, the time limit set out in section 110 for responding to such application shall begin to run from the date of the transfer.

Section 13. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 112 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 112. Deferral and denial of request.

(a) Grant of an application to access public information may be deferred or denied completely in the following situations:

(1) If withholding the publication of the information within a particular period is required under the provisions of any law, until the expiration of that period;

(2) If the information was prepared for presentation to the FSM Congress or to the FSM Supreme Court or for the purpose of being made available to a particular person or administrative office, until the expiration of a reasonable period after its preparation for it to be so presented or made available to the person or administrative office;

(3) If the premature release of the record would be contrary to the public interest, until the occurrence of any event after which or the expiration of any period beyond which, the release of information would not be contrary to the public interest;

(4) Information requested involves an ongoing criminal investigation; or

(5) Application is made to access information that involves executive privilege or a private conversation between the President and his cabinet members or assistants.

(b) Where a national agency defers or denies access to information in accordance with subsection (a) of this section, it shall, within 30 days of its decision—

(1) Notify the applicant of that decision and indicate to the applicant the period during which the deferment will operate; and

(2) Notify the applicant that he or she may, within 14 days from receipt of notice, make representations to the national agency as to why the denial or deferment must be reconsidered.

(c) If an applicant makes representations pursuant to paragraph (2) subsection (b) of this section, then the national agency before which an application to access information is pending, must, after due consideration of those representations, grant the application if there are reasonable grounds for believing that the applicant will suffer substantial prejudice if access to information is deferred or denied.”

Section 14. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 113 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 113. Partial grant of access.

(a) Where the information for which an application is made contains information that is exempt from access or matters that are not relevant or that are prejudicial to the public in general or to a private person in particular, the national agency may grant access to a copy of the record with the exempt or irrelevant matters deleted from it.

(b) The national agency that granted partial access to information under subsection (a) of this section may consider giving a copy of redacted information or allow the applicant viewing of the information during reasonable office hours without any copy thereof being provided.”

Section 15. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 114 under
chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 114. Information that cannot be found or does not exist.

(a) If the information requested does not exist or could not be found or retrieved despite diligent efforts, then the national agency requested to provide access to information shall notify the applicant of this fact.

(b) If, after notice is given, the public information in question is found, then notification shall be given to the applicant and access to the requested information shall be accorded to the applicant as expeditiously as possible.”

Section 16. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 115 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 115. Repeat application.

(a) Repeated request to access public information previously provided to the applicant or to the principal or the agent of the applicant may be denied. Notification to the applicant stating that it is repeated request shall be sufficient action taken on such request.

(b) Repetitive request that has no explanation or justification may be considered to be abusive or harassment and shall be subject to immediate rejection."

Section 17. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 116 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 116. Time period and extension of time.

(a) A national agency requested to give access to public information under this act shall take action on such request as expeditiously as possible, but not later than the following:

(1) 30 working days after the date of receipt of a complete application.

(2) in the case of an application that has been transferred to another national agency, 20 working days after the date of transfer.
(3) Where an application for information is transferred according to section 111, such transfer must be made 10 days from receipt of the application.

(b) Where an application to access public information involves voluminous records or requires a search through a large number of records, and where compliance within 30 calendar days would unreasonably interfere with the day-to-day activities of the national agency, notification shall be provided to the applicant concerning this fact, and where the applicant agrees, make every effort to assist the applicant with the modification of the application where possible.

(c) A national agency may extend the period for response under subsection (a) of this section to another 30 days or a longer period if the request is transferred to another national agency to the Division of Public Information.

(d) Where an application to access public information relates to information, which reasonably appears to be necessary to safeguard the life or liberty of a person, a response must be provided within 48 hours.

(e) Failure to comply with the period for response under subsection (a) of this section and any period of extension under subsection (c) shall be deemed to be a refusal of the application. Deemed refusal of an application under this section is appealable pursuant to section 135 of this act.”

Section 18. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 117 under
chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 117. Action and acknowledgment of application.

(a) A national agency, which receives an application for information shall provide the applicant, within 5 working days, an acknowledgment of the application stating the date on which the application was received and the Information Officer of the national agency responsible for handling the request.

(b) The response containing the decision of a national agency to an application to access public information must be by notice in writing by the head of national agency and state-

(1) whether the request has been granted in full or has been granted in part;

(2) the form in which the information will be communicated and, if appropriate, details of when and where the information can be accessed;

(3) in relation to any part of the request which relates to information that is not held by the national agency being requested, the fact that the body does not hold the information and, if the request has been transferred to another national agency, the fact of such transfer;

(4) in relation to an extension of time, the fact of such an extension and the reasons for it;

(5) in relation to any part of the request which is not granted, the fact of such refusal, the exemption on which the refusal is based and the reasons why the exemption applies;

(6) in relation to any refusal to indicate whether or not the national agency holds the relevant information, the fact of such refusal, the exemption on which the refusal is based and the reasons why the exemption applies; and

(c) Any person aggrieved by a decision by the national agency may lodge an appeal from such decision with the highest management official of the national agency concerned. With respect to a national agency within the executive branch, the President of the Federated States of Micronesia is considered as the highest management official. Procedures and the details of the appeal shall be set out by regulation referred to in section 138. The regulation shall provide for the appeal procedures including conduct of hearing, submission of written argument, and period to render decision.
(d) Decisions and procedures concerning application to access public information lodged with the Congress and the Supreme Court of the Federated States of Micronesia shall be governed by their respective rules of procedures and official practices adopted by the respective branches of government."

Section 19. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 118 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 118. Fees.

(a) Subject to regulation, reasonable amount of fees may be collected upon application made to access information. Access to information could be denied in the absence of proof of payment.

(b) Fee is not required upon application in respect of the following information-

(1) Public law and regulation of the national government; and

(2) Such other information as may be provided by regulation.

(c) Where a national agency fails to comply with the time limits, and extension, set out in section 116, the fee shall be refunded upon demand by the applicant.

(d) Where an application to access information is withdrawn, the fee shall be refunded upon demand by the Section 20. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 119 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 119.

(a) Where an applicant requires that access to public information be granted in any of the forms set out in subsection (b) of this section, a national agency shall, subject to subsection (c) hereof, provide access in accordance with that preference.

(b) An applicant may indicate the following preferences as to the desired form of access-

(1) a true copy of the information in permanent or other form;

(2) an opportunity to inspect the information, where necessary, using equipment normally available to the national agency;

(3) an opportunity to copy the information, using the applicant’s own equipment;

(4) a written transcript of the words contained in audio or visual information, if such transcript is feasible;

(5) a transcript of the information from shorthand or other codified form;

(6) an inspection of works; and
(7) the taking of samples of materials if feasible and if consistent with protecting the integrity of the information.

(c) Where a national agency is of the view that granting access to information in the form indicated by the applicant would-

(1) unreasonably interfere with its effective operation; or

(2) would be detrimental to the preservation of the information; or

(3) would involve an infringement of the copyright of a person other than the National Government, the national agency shall:

(a) so inform the applicant, offer to assist the applicant to identify another form in which the information may be provided, and upon the applicant’s approval, proceed to make every effort to so assist the applicant; or

(b) reject the application if the offer of assistance is refused.

(4) Where access to information or part thereof is required to be provided under this act and the applicant is sensorily disabled, the relevant national agency shall provide reasonable assistance to enable access to the information including providing such assistance as may be appropriate for inspection.”

Section 21. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 120 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 120. Information held by a state or municipality.

Information within state jurisdiction or under the custody of a state agency or municipal bodies shall be responsibility of the state government and municipality concerned. The respective laws, regulation and ordinances of the state government or municipality shall govern the access to such information.”

Section 22. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 121 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 121. Balance of interest.

(a) A national agency shall not refuse to indicate whether or not it holds information, or refuse to grant an application to access public information, unless the harm to be protected by withholding such indication or by refusing access to information outweighs the public interest supporting the disclosure of public information.

(b) Factors favoring access to information in the public interest include whether access to information would achieve any of the following—

(1) promotion of the objective of this act;
(2) prevention of the commission of offenses or other unlawful acts;
(3) prevention of a miscarriage of justice, abuse of authority or neglect in the performance of an official duty;
(4) enhancing open discussion and public debate on matters of public importance;
(5) oversight and accountability on the use of public funds;
(6) promotion of public participation in the political process and government decision-making;
(7) public health or safety; and
(8) environmental protection.

(c) Factors which may be given due consideration in deciding whether access to information would, on balance, be contrary to the public interest, include—

(1) access to the document could result in prejudice to the public service, or cause a loss of confidence in the Government of the Federated States of Micronesia;
(2) access to information could violate treaty obligation or undermine vital foreign policy or diplomatic relations with other nation, or disadvantage
the position of the Federated States of Micronesia in any ongoing or anticipated negotiation with any person, foreign nation or entity;

(3) access to the information may very likely create misinterpretation or misinformation to the detriment of public service, national interest, security or safety; and

(4) The application of executive privilege with respect to any official communication between the President and his cabinet members and their assistants.”

Section 23. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 122 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 122. Confidential information of third party.

(a) A national agency must, when considering an application to access information that might be a record of personal information of another person or commercial and confidential information of a third party, take all reasonable steps to notify the third party, to whom the record relates, of the application. The national agency must inform a third party of the application—

(1) as soon as reasonably possible, but in any event, within 21 days after that application is received or transferred; and

(2) by the fastest means reasonably possible.
(b) The notification to a third party pursuant to subsection (a) of this section must:

(1) state that an application to access public information might constitute a record of personal information or commercial and confidential information, as the case may be;

(2) furnish the name of the applicant for the information; and

(3) state that the third party may, within 21 days after being so informed—

(a) make written representations to the official of the national agency as to why the application to access public information should be refused; or

(b) give written consent for the disclosure of the record to the applicant.”

Section 24. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 123 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 123. Representation and consent.

(a) A third party that is notified pursuant to section 122 of an application to access public information may, within 21 days after being so notified—

(1) make written representations to the information officer concerned why the application should be refused; or

...
(2) give written consent for the disclosure of the record to the applicant concerned.

(b) A third party that obtains knowledge about an application to access public information other than being informed under section 122 may react or take action in the same manner as provided in subsection (a) of this section.

(c) Failure to make representation despite written notification provided under section 122 shall constitute waiver on the part of third party of the right or opportunity to raise any objection to the application to access information. Appeal to the highest management official as provided in section 135 is not available in case of deemed waiver to raise objection referred to in this subsection.”

Section 25. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 124 under
chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 124. Decision and notice.

(a) If the decision on the application to access public information is to grant the application, then notice of this decision shall be provided expeditiously to the applicant pursuant to section 117 and to the third party referred to in section 122, and the decision shall state to the aggrieved party the procedure for lodging the appeal including:

(1) adequate reasons for granting the application and the provisions of this act relied upon;

and

(2) that the third party may lodge an appeal from the decision within 30 days from receipt of notice.

(b) The applicant shall be given access to information pursuant to a decision by the national agency granting access notwithstanding representations by a third party, after the expiry of the applicable period for appeal, unless the appeal is lodged within that period.

(c) Where no third party is involved, a decision granting an application to access public information gives applicant immediate access to information upon receipt of notification of the decision.

(d) If the application is refused, then notice of this decision shall be provided expeditiously to the applicant and to third party, if any, and the decision shall state the procedure for lodging the appeal including:

(1) adequate reasons for granting the application and the provisions of this act relied upon;

and

(2) that the third party may lodge an appeal in accordance with section 135 of this title."

Section 26. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 125 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 125. Personal information.

Every person has a right to ascertain whether a national agency has in its possession personal information of such person, and the purpose of which such personal information is held."

Section 27. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 126 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 126. Request to access; amendment of personal information.

Any person may file a request to access personal information in the same manner and procedure as provided in section 106 and section 110. A person may also request that personal information held be amended in order to correct any error thereof. Nothing in this section takes away the authority of the states to regulate or control personal information pertaining to civil registry."

Section 28. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 127 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:
Section 127. Granting or refusing application to access personal information.

The provision of section 124 shall apply to making a decision to either grant or refuse access to personal information. In the event an amendment is granted with respect to personal information, appropriate notation shall be made in the records indicating the amendment made.”

Section 29. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 128 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 128. Privileged information.

A national agency may refuse to give access to information, where the information is covered by a legal privilege recognized by case law of the Federated States of Micronesia, unless the person entitled to the privilege has waived it.”

Section 30. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 129 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 129. Confidential or third-party information.

(a) A national agency may refuse access to information if:

(1) the information was obtained from a third party and to communicate it would constitute an actionable breach of confidence;

(2) the information was obtained in confidence from a third party and:

(a) contains a trade secret;

(b) its communication would, or would be likely to, seriously prejudice the commercial or financial interests of that third party; or

(c) the information was obtained in confidence from another country or international organization, and to communicate it would, or would be likely to seriously prejudice relations of the Federated States of Micronesia with that country or international organization.

(b) With respect to trade secrets, disclosure may be allowed, in full or partially, if the public interest in the disclosure outweighs the possible harm or injury to the interests of a third party."

Section 31. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 130 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 130. Matters of defense and national security.

A national agency may refuse to indicate whether or not it holds information, or refuse to grant access to information, where to do so would, or would be likely to, cause serious prejudice to national defense or national security arrangements and obligations of the Federated States of Micronesia, or endanger the life, health or safety of any individual."

Section 32. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 131 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 131. Investigation, prosecution, tax and immigration control.

A national agency may refuse to indicate whether or not it holds information, or refuse to grant access to information, where to do so would, or would be likely to cause serious prejudice to:

(a) the prevention or detection of crime;

(b) the apprehension or prosecution of an offender;

(c) the administration of justice;

(d) the assessment or collection of any tax or duty;

or

(e) the operation of immigration control."

Section 33. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 132 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 132. Commerce and economic interests.

(a) A national agency may refuse to indicate whether or not it holds information, or refuse to grant access to information, where to do so would, or would be likely to, cause serious prejudice to the ability of the national government to manage the economy of the Federated States of Micronesia.

(b) A national agency may refuse to indicate whether or not it holds information, or refuse to grant access to information, where to do so would, or would be likely to, cause serious prejudice to the legitimate commercial or financial interests of the Federated States of Micronesia."

Section 34. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 133 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 133.

(a) A national agency may refuse to indicate whether or not it holds information, or refuse to grant access to information, where to do so would, or would be likely to:

(1) cause serious prejudice to the effective formulation or development of government policy; or

(2) seriously frustrate the success of a policy, by premature disclosure of such policy.

(b) Subsection (a) of this section does not apply to facts, analyses of facts, technical data or statistical information."

Section 35. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 134 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 134. An information is exempt from disclosure if its disclosure could damage, destroy or interfere with the conservation of:

(a) any historical, archaeological or anthropological resources;

(b) anything declared to be a national monument, designated as protected national heritage or otherwise protected under any relevant laws of the Federated States of Micronesia;

(c) any species of plant or animal life so designated or which is endangered, threatened or otherwise vulnerable; or

(d) any other rare or endangered living resource."

Section 36. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 135 under chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 135. Appeal.

(a) A decision refusing, partially granting, or granting with condition, an application to access information is appealable to the highest management official of a national agency. For the executive branch, the highest management official is the President of the Federated States of Micronesia; for the FSM Congress, the Speaker of the FSM Congress; and for the FSM Supreme Court, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. For public corporation, the chief executive officer, or its equivalent position, is considered as the highest management official.

(b) The decision of the highest management official shall be considered final as the agency action that is appealable to the Supreme Court of the Federated States of Micronesia by the aggrieved party.

(c) Failure to comply with the period for response to an application to access information shall be deemed to be a refusal of the application, unless it is corrected by the national agency prior to an appeal being taken.”

Section 37. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 136 under
chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

“Section 136. +.
The period to appeal is 30 days from receipt of notice of refusal or deemed refusal of the application. The highest management official of a national agency shall have 30 days from filing of appeal to render a decision on the appeal.”

Section 38. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 137 under
chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:
"Section 137. Immunity.

Every public official or employee of the national government, acting reasonably and in good faith, shall be immune from administrative, civil or criminal action or liability, or any employment detriment, for any action taken in the exercise or performance any power, duty or responsibility under this act."

Section 39. Title 44 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia is hereby amended by inserting new section 138 under
chapter 1 thereof to read as follows:

"Section 138. Regulation.

(a) The President shall issue regulation promulgated according to title 17 of the Code of the Federated States of Micronesia to implement this act. Regulation shall provide for implementing details deemed necessary by the President.

(b) Regulation shall include provisions setting out suitable guidelines for determining and balancing of public interest, considerations of public policy, extension of period to lodge an appeal, conduct of hearing, submission of written argument, and the issuance of a final decision.

(c) Regulation promulgated shall include provisions for adequate and effective remedies in cases of deferment or denial of application to access public information.

(d) Regulation shall include provisions for the review on the effectiveness of the implementation of this act and its regulation. The review shall be conducted within two years of this act becoming a public law, and then every four years thereafter."

Section 40. This act shall become effective six months following either approval by the President of the Federated States of Micronesia or its becoming law without such approval.
